

DANIEL CORREA

Community Development Planner

Your vote for Daniel Correa is a vote for OUSD student achievement, state-of-the-art curriculum, fiscal transparency and increased parental participation.

We must pay attention to the people who make decisions about our children's education. Leaders must be held to account. I chose to run because parents have lost trust in our school board.

Parents, teachers and students must be confident once again that board members will work together – and with the community!

But, unfortunately, monthly board meetings are filled with partisan political bickering, questionable ethics and financial mismanagement. Our kids deserve better.

Valuable surplus properties that could generate millions of dollars needed to restore programs victimized by budget cuts sit in limbo.

My experience as an urban planner and City of Orange Planning Commissioner will ensure that the disposition of these properties generate maximum revenue for the district and address the sensitivity of neighbors next door.

Three school bond measures failed because voters do not believe that their money would not be spent responsibly.

You can count on me, a proven conservative, to protect your investment in our schools. That's why I hope you will vote for me and support the new, improved OUSD School Bond on your November 2016 ballot.
