

TINA ARIAS MILLER
Community College Director

As a college administrator for the past 20 years with a Doctorate in Educational Leadership, a parent to three college students, and current community college district director, I have been deeply involved with our local educational landscape.

I bring the experience, knowledge, and commitment necessary to lead our District during this critical time. I will use my involvement with state and federal initiatives to evaluate educational programs and bring my K-12 partnership experience to support student-centered approaches and educational excellence in our schools.

I will respect, value and encourage the involvement and feedback of RSCCD faculty, students and local residents. I will also seek the knowledge and expertise of our District employees to improve the educational community services we provide to Orange residents.

Over the years, the increasing cost of attendance and the time it takes to graduate in higher education has resulted in more student debt and incomplete degrees. I am committed to change that by creating a new strategic plan and updating our policies to achieve better outcomes for Orange students and our community. I would be honored to receive your vote.
